

100 Cargo-Carrying Subs Could Foil German U-Boat Raiders, Designer Claims

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Simon Lake, veteran designer of submarines, said Thursday a fleet of 100 cargo submarines could lead 9,000,000 tons of goods in Britain each year—and foil the German U-boat raiders.

"Nine million tons, he said, was just twice as much as all the supplies shipped from the United States to the British Isles in 1938." Lake said in a statement that a submarine to carry 7,500 tons could be built "at only slightly greater tonnage cost" than surface freighters of the same capacity, and that the operating cost, per ton probably would not exceed that of regular ships. He estimated the cost of 100 such submarines at $200,000,000.

The North German Lloyd proved during the first Great War that cargo submarines were possible when it sent the Deutschland to the United States, Lake said.

"The way to fight submarines is with submarines," he said. "A military weapon they can be rendered completely worthless, except as against battleships or other surface military craft, by using other submarines as cargo-carrying vessels."

cruciers or destroyers for attack along part of that route.

The bold action of the British fleet in moving into the Adriatic came at a time when reports are circulating of German troops in the Balkans, including as reinforcements for Albania. There is no confirmation of these reports, but the British are warning Italy that getting troops into Italy from the Balkans is now becoming increasingly difficult.

MAJOR OBJECTIVE

One major objective in naval strategy is to prevent the enemy from permanently splitting the fleet. It would seem that Great Britain has forced this disruption on the Italian navy.

Some Italian ships were at Naples on the southern coast of Italy, where they were bombed from the air a few days ago. Others are at Taranto in the southern heel of the Italian boot, and others are supposed to be at Bari and possibly Brindisi on the Adriatic.

To concentrate them at a single base must be presumed to be beyond the present power of the Axis. Otherwise, it would seem incredible that the Italians would allow the British to maneuver so freely in the Adriatic, regarded as "Italy's lake."

Especially does the separation of the Italian navy seem certain when it is realized that the Adriatic maneuvers can have been conducted with only part of the British Mediterranean naval force. Many British warships are now in action off the North African coast, awaiting the British navy's decision as to when to strike.

RATE OF 15 PER CENT

Now however a rate of 15 per cent, which is a fair war risk, is being applied to ships passing through the Suez Canal.

Through the Suez Canal, Turkey, Egypt and passage through Suez. Only the conviction that the Italian navy has become too weak to justify this action.

Italy was reported this week to have adopted the German tactic of trying to torpedo merchant ships without warning, through the use of mines. This would appear to be the first step toward an offensive in the Mediterranean.

Interpreting War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

AMID a hubbub of predictions on both sides of the Atlantic that the Nazis will launch a gigantic attack on Great Britain within months, Prime Minister Churchill sounded a significant note to parliament.

"He made it abundantly clear that Britain is being geared for an offensive of her own in 1941, not merely for defense. He radiated supreme confidence in Britain's ability to withstand any blow Germany may strike by land, sea or air, and to hit back effectively."

A still "half armed" Britain would become a "well armed nation" in 1941 with United States help, he said, adding:

"That will open possibilities of offensive warfare which have not been open to us to the present."

NEED IS DESPERATE
Mr. Churchill confirmed the impression of the writer that Britain expects an early offensive against her. He said that the British are being geared for an offensive of her own in 1941, not merely for defense. He radiated supreme confidence in Britain's ability to withstand any blow Germany may strike by land, sea or air, and to hit back effectively.

BRITISH NAVY MAKES DARING RAID ON VALONA

had fired had gone inside the Adriatic itself.

After the raid on Taranto, the Mediterranean fleet had returned to Alexandria, Egypt.

Then it had heavily bombed the coast of Libya in support of the British forces on their offensive.

SECRET CROSSING
Evidently, as the British closed in on Bagla after having taken Salami, the bulk of the fleet had steamed secretly across to the Italian side of the Mediterranean.

Before the war it had been taken for granted that Italy could defend the Adriatic against big ships, with big coastal guns, which could sweep the strait of Otranto from the Italian and Albanian side.

As the British fleet bombarded Alexandria, the base of the Italian navy, the British navy had been able to announce the raid yesterday, adding that there had been no casualties.

However, the British fleet had been about on a raid of its own.

Berlin, according to the British view.

"The Hitler is in great need of doing something now, or at any rate, within two months," Mr. Churchill said. "Hitler, with gigantic power and is capable of inflicting a serious blow."

Therefore the prime minister warned that the "mortal danger" of invasion or a "prolonged deadlock" was not passed. Yet the main theme of his address in parliament, keyed to ever-growing British victory over Italy in Egypt and Libya, was a warning that there had been no casualties.

CONFIDENT IMPRESSION
Mr. Churchill's speech, having said to parliament recently that Britain's war effort was geared for a strike in 1941, was a clear statement that he expected the war to last long, adding that he must merely the effort must be great enough to meet any eventuality.

The address also confirmed once the impression that the British navy was planning months ago, as far back as 1939, to strike the Italian navy in the Adriatic.

That means that the British navy's victory was not a by-product of Italian defeat by Greece, but plans from the very start of the battle of Britain six months ago. Mr. Churchill's expectation obviously is that if Hitler strikes full force at Britain within two months, he will meet the war in his judgment.

That is the 1941 opportunity. Mr. Churchill foretold it would open the way to his judgment. The British counter attack in any of war will become effective in 1941, another factor bearing heavily on the war.

Billions Are Involved

It is estimated at Washington that to carry out President Roosevelt's "lend-lease" plan will involve an expenditure of $20,000,000 by the government of the United States. To fight the war does not run beyond 1942. To get the real significance of the proposal it has to be frankly considered that this money may never come back, nor the ships and other equipment it represents. It will not come back, even though the war should be destroyed. Hitler doesn't pay any country's debts; not even those of Germany. Mr. Roosevelt knows that. He knows also that the risk involved will be used against his plan and against him, by all the pro-Nazi elements in the United States and all the surviving alphas and betas in Congress and the press. The criticism and the clamor—she is doing to meet the proof of his conviction that the freedom of the world is at stake, and may be lost in this battle of Britain.

A Busy Country

The Bureau of Statistics reports that more goods changed hands in Canada during the first ten months of the present year than during the corresponding period in any former year. The figures for the first ten months of 1940, compared with the 1936 figures of 100. The figures for last year were 120. Work of course accounted for much of the good of the year, but not for all. There was an increase of 125 per cent in mineral production, coal production being up 1,800,000 tons. The output of steel went up from 1,153 last year to 14,477. Textile, iron and steel plants showed marked increases in production. The output of 40,000 more of fine gold than last year. Crude petroleum was up 12.7 per cent. Construction, including war plants and defence establishments, amounted to $70,000,000, an increase over last year's figures of $100,000,000.

Canada is now a busy country, and fortunately without any notable symptoms of "boom" conditions—thanks largely to control measures affecting prices and in degree the choice of goods.

More Trouble For Benito

British-South African forces celebrated the good news from Italy, and the end of a rainy spell by raising Italian banners, capturing a strongly-fortified post and gathering in some prisoners of war and a good deal of supplies. This is a promising start for a new campaign against another section of Italy's African empire.

The defeat of Graziani has left it due to the African forces even more completely isolated than they have been. With Sid Barrani as a half-way landing place, air command in Italy is being stepped up, and the relatively easy. Now that this base has been lost and the Marshall's army is disorganized, the air transport of supplies to the remote forces in Somalia and Abyssinia is crippled.

It is reported that the Italian officers were not very keen in the Italian campaign. The British troops in Italy are now in a tight corner. Not more because of the British troops in Italy, but because of the Abyssinians behind them and all around them.

These forces fighters have a heavy task to settle with the troops who invaded their country, massacred their people without mercy, and made their homeland a wasteland. When they get to the end of the war, they will find that the British and find refuge in prison camps.

The Mission Goes On

By great good fortune only 16 of the 168 aircraft are believed to have been destroyed. When the Western Front is opened, the British and find refuge in prison camps.

It is in good fortune, for, for national as well as human reasons, that the British and find refuge in prison camps.

Power from Minneapolis
In order to secure control to operate munitions plants in southern Alberta, the Calgary Power Co. is in Alberta to raise the water level in Lake Minnnowa, to provide parliament and the provincial legislature with the necessary legislation.

Power has been developed from the lake water for about 20 years. The plan will cause the flooding of low land around the borders and thus change the familiar aspect of the feature of the lake. It is expected that every day that it is in the lake, it will be in the lake.

taken to not mar the beauty of the lake, and suggestions have even been made that the effect will be to enhance rather than lessen the scenic attractions of the locality.

This is a deviation from the settled policy that industrial development should be allowed to take place in the industrial parks. It is made under war conditions and for war purposes and can be justified on that ground. But any attempt to make this a precedent for further encroachment on park areas should be promptly squelched. These have been set aside as public playgrounds, and must be kept as such.

The Minneapolis concession should be treated as a distinct exception to the rule that parks are to be preserved as parks; and no attention paid to arguments that because the government is in Congress and in the industrial parks should be allowed, at least, in some cases.

Italians living in Ottawa and Montreal presented the Red Cross with $1,700 worth of help to buy an ambulance. With the cheque and a letter saying that the people of Italy are opposed to the war. There are reasons to believe the donors are as correct in their opinion on this point as they are in their duty to support the Red Cross work.

The official announcer at Rome brightens up his corner of the news too cheerful as by telling Italians their air force has shot down a German plane, and that the navy has sunk 37 British war ships and only 23. Dr. Goebbels will have to look to his laurels. His opposite number at Rome isn't letting it pass as the only man in the Italian publicity branch who can make figures to suit his purpose.

A Buffalo man tried to run a bank without any assets, on the theory that people could do business just as well by swapping goods as by using money. He was arrested. The theory broke down when it came to collecting his salary, and he was taken to the police. He was charged with being set to a quiet spot where he can think over the scheme and find out what the matter was with it.

From The News Side Glances

By Harold L. Weir

The British Ministry of Food had had a bad time yesterday afternoon when a deputation of housewives angrily protested, in person, against food prices and the rationing of food.

The women were received by Sir Henry French and called him names when, after listening to them for half an hour, he arose to go to his office, and the women followed him.

Sir Henry suggested that an official of the Ministry of Health, one Dr. McGeer, should stay and discuss with them the question of free liver oil.

Dr. McGeer, probably a married man himself, respectfully declined. The women cried "Stupid!" Dr. McGeer, who had been in the room, the women clutched at his coat-tails to pull him back, but the doctor managed to escape.

Whereupon the deputation, flushed and bright of eye, retreated quickly in good order.

I tell this story here because it illustrates so beautifully the operation of the British democratic system, a system unlike any other on earth.

In this case had taken place in Germany, for instance, everything would have been quite different.

In the first place, the housewives who enjoy the benefits of rule by the British would have dared to complain about anything even to a policeman, let alone a member of the government.

If they had shouted at a high official and called him names, they would have been shot. If they had caught at a Herr Doktor's coat-tails they would have been killed in oil.

Yet the same women, under stress of bombing and destruction, have imposed upon themselves a rigid self-discipline and self-control that make Hitler's Germany look like a bunch of Mexican jumping beans with St. Vitus' dance.

Their duty to the Nazi troops attempt to land in Britain, these women will give an account of themselves. Many brave soldiers have professed the opinion that they would rather be killed by the women than by the British.

Places are being laid in New York today for the manufacture of a new type of gun operated by a propulsive force never yet used in ballistics.

These guns "fire" their projectiles by means of compressed air. The projectiles are magnetized placed along the barrel and without the use of explosives.

Cad against aircraft, they are said to propel a projectile as high as any airplane can fly.

The anti-aircraft model weighs only 450 pounds and costs less than $500 to produce in quantity.

The inventor claims that these guns are not only accurate and powerful but also beat out jam and could be made to fire at any enemy object almost continuously. Their range would be limited only by the electric power.

Sometimes in the stress of war there appear devices that can be made to accelerate the pursuit of peace.

Humors of the fray:
Fearful of the demoralization of their own people, the Italians are cracking down on visitors in their cities. The law is strict. The law is strict.

First to be punished under this law was a man who had been in the city for a long time. He was punished for a long time.

Thank God we have the publicans with us. Now, if we only had the sinners . . .

Edmund Lowe, suave movie actor, is living apart from his wife, he says, has a bad temper.

Traveling in Los Angeles, actor, awarded the lady $1250 a month temporary allowance. The classic example of bad temper in women is said to have been Xantippe, wife of Socrates, who had such a wicked tongue that her poor husband had to resort to philosophy for the sake of his soul's salvation.

The main reason for the days of these degenerate days is wearing thin.

Socrates lived with the world's champion athlete, a prizefighter named Lower, paid $1250 a month to get away from a mere amateur.

A few days ago, a prominent Italian editor wrote something about the British. The British should be warned.

"The Italians are an easy-going and peace-loving people, slow to anger, god-fearing and tolerant. It takes a lot to get them mad. But when they do get mad, they are terrible."

"Once aroused, the Italians can sweep away any enemy in their furious anger. Nothing can stand against the glorious Italian when his temper is up."

When this was said, the whole British world trembled accordingly.

Yakov: Mr. Churchill made this announcement:
During the British offensive into Libya, the British captured 100,000 prisoners, 30,000 Italian prisoners, 100 serviceable guns, 50 tanks and great quantities of valuable stores and munitions.

Total Italian casualties: 72 killed and 758 wounded. What sweet dispositions these easy-going Italians have!

They have been awaked by the Greeks, swayed by the Albanians, even kicked in the pants by the dumbly ignorant Ethiopians. And apparently they haven't got mad yet.

Today And Tomorrow

The new position of power in the world today is a very different affair from what it was a few years ago. It is still, of course, a very open question whether the British and the French have sufficient power to win a complete victory in the Mediterranean. But they have won it in the North Africa.

Which is a reasonably certain that the Italian offensive in this war has collapsed. It is still, of course, a very open question whether the British and the French have sufficient power to win a complete victory in the Mediterranean. But they have won it in the North Africa.

Co-Ordinated Offensive Wins For British Force Great Victory In Egypt

LONDON, Dec. 20.—(CP)—The admiralty, in a lengthy communique on naval operations in the Mediterranean, Thursday night disclosed in detail how the fleet, striking with its air arm and working with the Royal Air Force and the land forces, helped drive the Italians from Egypt into Libya in one of the most co-ordinated offensives in military history.

(War Secretary Anthony Eden described this offensive Thursday night saying: "There can be no parallel for such an achievement in the whole history of the war.")

Observers have already pointed out that this desert "blinking" was not a spontaneous organized offensive and that every move had been calculated in advance. From 23,000, Churchill in the House of Commons indicated yesterday that the offensive was planned to be back as last July although Britain then was under the shadow of Nazi invasion. Shipping of troops, tanks and guns eastward was begun from land carried on in great secrecy while the R.A.F. was maintaining its air control in Italian space.

Beginning with the communique message sent by the first Lord of the Admiralty and the first Lord of the Mediterranean, the communique set out the offensive in a step-by-step, in terse form, the duties carried out by the Navy as an indispensable part of the land sea and air drive against the Italians.

Behind the official phrasing of the communique was the story of fleet bombardment of coastal objectives along the coast, and the land forces of sailors by top-down carrying planes against enemy shipping and the modification of the enemy's rear.

The message of congratulations said:

"The great work accomplished by your command, including the fleet air arm, in co-operating with the army and the Royal Air Force in the heavy defeat inflicted on the enemy in Egypt, is very much appreciated. Please convey our congratulations to all concerned. Good luck to you in the rest of the operations."

Operations off the Egyptian and Libyan coast began from a naval point of view, on Dec. 8, a Sunday, the day before it was disclosed that a British thrust had begun. During that night the Italian base camp at Matruh was bombed by both heavy and light units of the Mediterranean fleet.

Other units, at the same time, successfully bombarded Sidi Barrani, the first principal objective of the land drive and farthest point of the Italian advance into Egypt. These bombardments were carried out by the fleet with co-operation of the navy's "eyes"—aircraft of the fleet air arm. These planes reported that all convoys left in the target area.

The following night Matruh and Sidi Barrani were shelled again. By the following day the great Italian retreat had begun.

That retreat took place along the coast where the Italians had built their highway. For the Italians to retreat farther inland along the burning desert meant certain death through thirst and starvation, and the possibility of becoming lost in the sandy wastes.

Within range of the navy's guns, the retreating Italians were harassed by the fleet, the enemy's columns being bombarded throughout the night of Dec. 10-11, in the vicinity of Saloni. The last position held by the Italians in Egypt.

SALONI BOMBARDED
Saloni was bombarded by both heavy and light units during Dec. 11, and the bombardment continued by light forces during the night of Dec. 11-12.

This bombardment was described as particularly effective during the night of Dec. 11-12. During this period both heavy and light units were firing practically continuously and the range was frequently closed, so that the pumps could be used when the enemy personnel abandoned their armored vehicles.

The communique added that shore batteries fired at all the ships but on this were sustained by the land forces, had advanced so rapidly that the navy had to pause for breath to coordinate the action along with the unusually rapid advance. This was implied in the section of the communique which spoke of the rapid advance as "treating some overtures as to the military situation."

Land visibility likewise curtailed naval bombardment on that day, but naval units were engaged in the vital task of supporting the forward troops and evacuating garrisons.

"Tanks tanks called for a high degree of seamanship owing to the strong westerly wind," the communique said.

Saloni was bombarded successfully during Dec. 12-14 by a heavy unit of the Mediterranean fleet. Italian motor speed boats attempted to attack the unit but they were driven off.

During that action-packed night the Italian fleet, the torpedo-carrying planes of the fleet air arm, carried out a heavy attack on the main harbor of Libya, Tripoli. Four ships of bombs were dropped. Three boats were sunk or seriously damaged. Damage was done to warehouses and supply dumps. Ships at anchor in the harbor were bombed. One Sardinian was lost.

On Dec. 14 the Italian submarine Salate was sunk, when it attempted to interfere with the operations. This fact had been disclosed by the Admiralty.

A Sardinian aircraft struck again at Bardia Dec. 15 in conjunction with a heavy sea bombardment.

Throughout the whole operation the communique said, "the fleet air arm co-operated with the land forces."

GERMANS PLAN TO MAKE ITALY VASSAL STATE

LONDON, Dec. 20.—(CP)—The British Broadcasting Corporation, quoting a "neutral observer" in Rome, said Thursday night large numbers of German and aircraft gunners and other German army units, described as "specialists," have arrived in Rome.

Italian officers told the neutral observer, the BBC said, that "these arrivals are the beginning of a German attempt to reduce Italy from the status of an ally to that of a vassal."

The BBC also quoted Rome reports which said the council of the Fascist militia Thursday passed a resolution calling on Italians to form a line strong enough to meet the German army. These, while one of the greatest efforts in history to avert its conclusion."

It was also reported that the Italian government was in contact with great success both with the German army and with the German navy.

REPORTS SHOW FRESH CONVOY ATTACKS MADE

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Two ships were attacked by submarines about 400 miles west of the first coast today in what appeared to be the second attack on a convoy in three days.

Word of the attack was heard by Mercury radio which picked up large messages from the vessels. Both gave positions in the same area, the area that in earlier months had become the graveyard of ships carrying war materials to the British empire.

The first report today came from the British steamer Carlin. At 5:30 a.m. M.S.T., she radiated that a submarine had crossed her bow and she launched a torpedo.

Thirty-six minutes after came a second report, this time from a ship which did not immediately identify itself.

The 5,500-ton Carlin, built in 1924, is owned by R. Chapman and Ships operated out of Newcastle. Scores of British-controlled ships have been attacked by U-boats in the same general area since Germany stepped up its campaign against shipping. The last assault, involving the sinking of a tanker, was reported within four hours they had been torpedoed.

Camrose Meets First Defeat Of Season At Hands Of Stettler Club

St. Louis 4-2

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 20.—(AP)—St. Louis Blues staged a five-minute overtime victory that netted four goals in the second period and defeated Kansas City Americans 4-2 Thursday night in the American Hockey Association. Bill Knott scored twice and Pete Pender and Henry Marston once each for Blues. The Pupils and Red Jackson failed for Americans.

All Set To Play

Excitement in Edmonton Bulletin Two Hills, Dec. 20.—The inter-collegiate hockey team has been promoted with new arrivals by Mike Downhough of Two Hills. The coach is Charles Trenchard and Nick Mackie is manager. John Skahan captains the team and other players are: Hymuk, Katchuk, B. Skahan, Stanton, Yukon, Katchuk, Mackie, Nelson and Katchuk.

OTTAWA HOLDS HOPE OF SEEING ALLAN CUP WIN

OTTAWA, Dec. 20.—(CP)—Ottawa Senators already have visions of reaching out for the Allan Cup about the time spring days are softening the ice and it's easy to understand why.

The Senators record to date is 10 wins, three ties and one loss, a 1-2 defeat by the Canadiens being their last time out. Next Saturday Senators meet Montreal Canadiens and the way the Ottawa boys are travelling has given new life to hockey enthusiasm in the capital. Average crowds are a 3,000.

"The boys are hoping and dreaming about playoffs already," said Coach Gene Chouinard Thursday night. Chouinard led Perth Blue Wings to the Memorial Cup semi-finals last year.

"Every team is tough until they are beaten but if the boys show the same zip the rest of the way they have a good chance I'll be well pleased," he said.

Chouinard looks for big things from his newest acquisition, Gordie Poirier, former professional with Montreal Canadiens and the National Hockey League. Poirier played last year with St. Mary's on the same line as Albert and Tony Lemay, the St. Boniface brothers who have been sparking Senators this season.

Lemay, former professional, has the chance to team with Poirier again. "He isn't a big fellow," said Albert, "but he's a good hockey player and knows what to do with the puck when he gets it."

Albert Lemay, right winger on the forward line centered by Tony, led in fourth position in the Q.S.H.L. scoring race with 10 assists.

The Senators Chouinard has gathered together have a fair mixture of talent but one home bred star is Jerry Shannon, former professional with Montreal Maroons and Montreal Canadiens. Jerry started his professional hockey career with the Ottawa Senators in 1933.

Dunc Chayne, Jake Brunning and the Black, played together in Winnipeg. The Lemay brothers were stars with Winnipeg teams and Sparky Nicholson played in Saskatoon. Trevor Higginbottom is a Fort William star.

Maple Leafs won their second straight game in the City Junior League by beating their club-mates, the Maple Leafs, 4-2 on Thursday night at the 11th arena.

The Maple Leafs led the league leaders according to the first period. Penalties were: Silvetti, Wilson, Davis, Williams, Superst, and McColl.

The Maple Leafs took a two-goal lead in the second period, the first being scored by Kopp and the second by Baird on Wilson's assist. Wilson drew the only time-out ticket in this period.

In the third period the Leafs added another when Douglas scored on the Ducks' break. The other marker for the winners was made by Wilson on a play by Baird.

Maple played their best game in the closing minutes, Baird's beating Barber on a pass from Williams. Marzky also scored the final goal of the game. Superst was penalized in the period.

Dan McLeod was the official in charge.

Imperials Stage Blitzkrieg Attack To Score 5-1 Victory

STETTTLER, Dec. 20.—Stettler Imperials stopped Camrose Maroons' unbeaten record at five straight here Thursday night by handing them a 5-1 set-back in a Central Alberta League game.

More than 500 hockey fans saw the locals take a 4-0 lead in the first period, hold the Maroons to one goal in the next and add a lone counter in the third session of the best game of the season.

Stettler went into the lead in the first minute of play when Ken Sealy beat the Maroon goalie on a pass from brother Dave. Clarence Gower added another at 7:30.

Half way through the period Johnnie Voss, a former journeyman combined with Clarence Gower for the third goal and Ken Sealy relayed to Mac Taylor in front the count to four at 16:00.

The only Camrose goal came early in the second 20 minutes and was the result of an unassisted effort by Soule.

Voss scored his second career after 11 minutes of the first period but elapsed with Albert again in the scoring role. While play was little inclined to be rough, the game was easily the fastest seen on local ice this year. The loss prevented Camrose from taking sole possession of first place in the league and the Imperials and Lacombe being deadlocked for the lead with 10 points each.

RED DEER, Dec. 20.—In the best hockey game seen here this winter, Wetaskiwin Colonels defeated Red Deer 4-2 at the Arena on Thursday night in a Central Alberta Hockey League fixture. The game produced plenty of fast hockey with the winners showing a little better combination play and more finish around the goal mouth.

In Woodwards Mixed Five Schiller, of the Maple Leaf, ran this game score to 264 for single honours and he also picked 404 and 2,514.

Hector Paton led the Backers league for best one game by counting 245 and Peter Peters 329 was the high there, his scores being 155, 187 and 207.

VARSITY BEARS UNABLE TO GET HOCKEY GAMES

The University of Alberta has a hockey team, but has been unable to play. After three weeks of negotiating with various leagues, colleges officials in charge of athletics have come to the conclusion that unless arrangements are worked out by the end of the season, the club will not play a few exhibition games with local teams.

Because the crowded rink is now being used as a military drill hall, the students had to construct an outdoor rink to use for practice in anticipation of an active season of hockey competition. It now appears that the rink will probably be used chiefly for ice hockey with little or no senior stuff.

If present plans materialize the club will play a series of exhibition games with teams in the Central Alberta League, as well as with city junior clubs. It is unlikely that any inter-collegiate games will be played this season.

Early this fall hockey club officials at the university planned a trip to the Kootenay region for a series of games with teams in that area during the Christmas holidays, but final arrangements on the proposed tour could not be made.

Other colleges are experiencing difficulty finding rinks to practice on and because they have given up their own covered rinks, the proper facilities to stage any inter-collegiate matches for the Halpenny trophy, emblematic of western Canada intercollegiate hockey supremacy which the U. of A. Golden Bears are at present.

It is expected that when the university re-opens after the Christmas holidays a final ruling will be given as to the likelihood of any intercollegiate games.

BRITISH SHIPS CARRY TROOPS TO WAR ZONES

JERSEY CITY, N.J., Dec. 20.—The master of the liner President Garfield said on his return on Thursday from a round-the-world cruise that he had seen Britain's two largest passenger ships, the Queen Elizabeth and Queen Mary, and that both were in war zone.

The Queen Elizabeth—largest vessel afloat—when left New York six weeks ago, was observed at Capetown, South Africa, on Nov. 20, and by Captain Valdemar Nielsen, of the Queen Mary, on Nov. 20. The Queen Mary sailed from New York last March 21 and had been reported several times since in southern waters.

Capt. Nielsen said the President Garfield's sailing from Bombay was delayed 12 hours until a conveyer of right large merchantmen carrying 2,000 troops each to Egypt, had cleared port. Crewmen said port officials told them 40 ships left Bombay for Suez during the two days they were in Bombay.
One of the world's largest vessels, the Queen Mary, was on the eastern shore of Mount Loos, on the island of Hawaii.

Lothian Did Not Expect To Live
For Six Months
LONDON, Dec. 20.—(AP)—David Lloyd George disclosed in the House of Commons Thursday that the late Lord Lothian, before he returned to Washington to resume his post as British ambassador, expressed doubt that he would live for six months.
Lothian, at one time was Lloyd George's secretary.
Lloyd George, world war prime minister, said he approved the government's decision to push the war against the Italians.

"They won't fight a war which they don't believe in and they don't believe in this war," he said. "If we press them with all the resources in our power they won't stand. . . . I hope that by the time we meet again we shall be able to congratulate the prime minister on having eliminated the more squallid of his opponents."
Pipe smoking is thought to have originated in America.
